

Beats solo buds now available order 18hour battery

When will Beats Solo buds be available?

Alongside the launch of the Solo 4 headphones last month, Apple's Beats brand also announced a very intriguing new Beats Solo Buds product. The company has now confirmed that Beats Solo Buds, with their remarkable 18 hours of battery life, will be available for order on June 18 for $79.99 and launch on June 20.

How much do beats earbuds cost?

Following their announcement back in late April, the new Beats Solo Buds earbuds are now available to order ahead of their launch later this week. Priced at $79.99, the Solo Buds offer 18 hours of battery life right in the buds themselves and come in the smallest case ever for a Beats earphone product.

How much does a Beats Solo Bud cost?

The company has now confirmed that Beats Solo Buds, with their remarkable 18 hours of battery life, will be available for order on June 18 for $79.99 and launch on June 20. Side note: If you've been thinking about buying Beats Solo 4, they are currently on sale for $149.99 on Amazon. That's a $50 discount compared to their usual price point.

How long do beats buds last?

Beats claims that Beats Solo Buds will offer up to 18 hours of battery life from the buds themselves. You read that right: that's 18 hours of battery life from Beats Studio Buds themselves - not including a charging case of any sort. In fact, the case included with Beats Solo Buds doesn't feature an integrated battery.

Are Beats Solo buds wireless?

As a refresher, the Beats Solo Buds feature a truly wireless design with an in-ear fit. They come with four ear tip sizes (XS, S, M, and L) and offer "passive noise isolation." They feature a custom Beats chip inside that enables one-touch pairing across both iOS and Android.

Does the solo buds case have a battery?

The Solo Buds case doesn't have a battery, so the earbuds won't top up when you're not using them. The case is essentially a dock and will only charge the buds when it's plugged in with a USB-C cable. You'll be able to charge it with your phone, laptop or tablet though, and Beats' Fast Fuel feature gives you an hour of use in five minutes.
