

Fenix 8 solar battery life

How long does a Fenix 8 Battery last?

For the standard size - the 47mm - the fenix 8 Solar is rated for 21 days of battery life in smartwatch mode. Meanwhile, the fenix 8 AMOLED is only rated for 16 days. So that's a meaningful dip, but the AMOLED version still has a decent amount of battery life.

Does a Fenix 8 solar have a good battery life?

With the fenix 8 Solar, you also get the (mild) benefit of solar charging. The advertised battery life with solar charging is 28 days in smartwatch mode. That's a 30% increase, and that sounds significant. In my experience with a fenix 7S Pro Solar, you rarely get that much bang for your buck.

What is a Fenix 8 solar?

Our Fenix 8 Solar has a titanium frame and bezel as well as a scratch-resistant sapphire crystal. Garmin also combines the MiP variants with a lens made of solar cells to further increase the battery life. All model variants have waterproof, inductive metal buttons, a metal sensor protector on the underside, and a built-in flashlight.

What is the difference between Fenix 8 AMOLED vs solar?

The second major difference between the fenix 8 AMOLED vs Solar is with the battery. This is for two reasons: The AMOLED screen drains the battery faster. The fenix 8 Solar includes solar charging. How much difference are we talking? For the standard size - the 47mm - the fenix 8 Solar is rated for 21 days of battery life in smartwatch mode.

Is the Fenix 8 solar better than the Garmin 8 AMOLED?

So while in theory the fenix 8 Solar has almost twice the battery life as the fenix 8 AMOLED, in reality it's probably closer to 30-40% more. If you're really interested in solar charging, you'd be better off checking out the new Garmin Enduro 3. It has most of the features of the fenix 8 Solar and it's cheaper.

Does Fenix 8 burn more battery?

As you can see, the Fenix 8 in SatIQ mode easily beat the claimed specs for battery burn, and that's ignoring the fact that the battery specs don't account for navigation (which burns more battery): Again, more testing to come on the various models, but everything is looking very solid in this realm.
