Does Hawaiian Electric have a home battery incentive?

Hawaiian Electric customers on Oʻahu and Maui with rooftop solar may now be eligible for a new incentive by adding a home battery. The utility wants to add more battery capacity onto the grid to help manage retirement of a coal plant and support Hawaii's goal of 100 percent clean energy by 2045.

Does Hawaiian Electric have a battery bonus program?

The Battery Bonus program for the island of Oʻahu is now closed to new applications. Hawaiian Electric has indicated that customer applications for Oʻahu currently under review will continue to be processed, through early 2024. Hawaiian Electric may make a successor program available, though details have yet to be confirmed.

When will my Maui solar application be accepted?

Maui applications will be accepted through June 30, 2024, or until the 15 MW cap is reached or the program is extended, whichever happens first. If you are an existing HECO Net Energy Metering (NEM) customer, enrolling in the Battery Bonus program allows you to add additional solar capacity to your roof.

Should Hawaii add more battery capacity?

The utility wants to add more battery capacity onto the grid to help manage retirement of a coal plant and support Hawaii's goal of 100 percent clean energy by 2045. The Battery Bonus program for the island of Oʻahu is now closed to new applications.
